Groundhog Comes Out, And Retires

No Doubt About Seeing Shadow In Lawrence

County

Gaunt and haggard from a winter's hibernation, whiskers curled up like a pretzel, but still whistling "Stormy Weather" Bre'r Groundhog stepped out of his winter diggins early today.

And as promptly stepped right

For instead of overhanging clouds that hid the sun he was met by a veritable barrage c sunlight that hit him on the end of hi funny nose and skidded right up between his eyes.

It was all very disgustful to Bre'r Groundhog. He had counted on opening his season today and bringing the spring along

Instead of that he now stays indoors for six more weeks and for that period we'll have winter weather, coal bills, pulse warmers and Huey Long.

It's an interesting tradition if you believe it. So is the one about the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

But it makes copy, so what? The city editor asked for a short story on Groundhog Day. This is it. The groundhog came out. So did the sun. The groundhog went back in. And for six more weeks there'll be winter.

Keep Subject Dark Until Action Is Taken On Work-Relief Bill

HUGE DEFICIT IS FACING GOVERNMENT

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 .--Hint of an administration move to increase federal taxes this year was whispered on Capitol Hill today despite earlier forecasts that congress would not change existing levies.

The prospective governmental deficit of 34 thousand million dollars at the end of the next fiscal year and President Rocsevelt's determination to spend a large portion of the $4,880,000,000 work relief fund within the next twelve months revived secret consideration of new tax legislation. The congress incidentally must pass a tax bill if for for another year.

Come Into Open

The administration plan apparently will be to soft-pedal higher tax talk until after Mr. Roosevelt's law. Then, the subject will be brought out into the open.

In event congress enacts the $2,adjusted service (bonus) certificates, and plungered at will until the law lever for forcing higher taxes. If shot their way out of the city jail the administration will use it as a cit and terrific cost of contemporary unemployment relief will be ad-

Both posted $500 bail each for hearings Thursday on charges of conspiring to rewrap and redate more than 1100 packages of the serum allegedly after it had lost its impotency.

Dr. Tingely said four packages of the serum returned to him by Miller last fall after the date of effectiveness had expired were tested and found still potent. The physician said he so reported to Miller and the latter, according to the attorney general, ordered two women clerks in his department to rubber-stamp new dates on several hundred other packages in the same lot.

A total of 1101 other packages later returned to the laboratory by Miller on Dr. Tingeley's suggestion, were rewrapped and redated and returned to the department of health Thus, once more did these two for redistribution, the physician dead persons figure in the records said, after tests showed the serum

CALVIN COOLIDGE has made known to the legislative III committee of Massachusetts, which is considering methods of honoring the memory of the late president, that she disap- It was a helpful thought to him "of proves of a memorial in the form of a statue. As her views will probably be respected we are not likely to see a statue of Mr. Coolidge in the capital of the state of which he was governor for two terms.

The incident, however, is a reminder of the fact that the statue is no longer the most approved method of perpetuating the name and fame of one who has served his country, although, him, he dug a great hole in the field in some cases, it is peculiarly appropriate.

The present disposition is to combine utility or altruism with art. Thus playgrounds have been laid out and libraries erected to the memory of men who have held high official places in the body . . . But when the hoisting state and nation.

YEAR OF THE PINK SLIP

No one, so far as we know, goes about asking his friends and acquaintances or his business associates the extent of their earnings for a given period. No one asks and, except when a group of wage-earners of March were warm. The rains of March were warm. given period. No one asks and, except when a group of wage-earners And early April the buds swelled may publicly complain about it, no one tells what he earns. The slip, which every taxpayer must fill out, unless he is willing to let the government do it for him at a cost of $5, provides as if I had done it myself. space for the name and address and signature of the maker of the return. a statement of his total gross income, total deductions, net income, total credits against net income for purposes of normal tax, and the tax pay-

A subsection of the law, cited on the slips, says that: "Such agreements or copies thereof shall as soon as practicable be made available to public examination and inspection in such manner as the commissioner (of internal revenue) with the approval of the secretary may determine, in the office of the collector with which they are filed, for a period of not less than three years from the date they are required to be filed."

Obviously it's a grand chance for snoopers who want to find out how much their neighbors make, and how many people they are supporting. To pry into such things is like looking at private correspondence, but it is perfectly legal in this, the year of the Pink Slip. The regulation also offers opportunities for business houses to learn whether their competitors are making money, and how much. Those so inclined can get a line on whether it is going to be worth while to try to squeeze the other fellow out of business. And employees would be able to learn the state of the boss's business.

FOILING PETTY CROOKS

Petty crooks operate in all towns and cities. We should not lock our cars if we thought otherwise, and the news columns would read differently if perfect regard for property existed.

All criminal types, however, tend to drift where the picking is easiest and detection the least likely. Every resident of a community can do something to discourage petty thieving, as well as grand larceny.

Youthful employes should not be sent to the bank with large deposits, nor should the messenger use the same route continuously, nor issue from the same door at the precise moment every day, carrying moneys. The same individual should not be the habitual money-carrier, safety dictates occasional alternates.

The petty crook may be discouraged by general observation of a few practical "don'ts." Don't carry a billfold in your hip pocket. Don't tell the nice-looking doorbell ringer that nobody is home next door. Don't leave papers or circulars strewn about on the porch and lawn. Don't let men into your house on the plea of wanting to read a meter unless you have positive knowledge about them. This is one of the tricks which the underworld works with frequent success, even though it has been exposed time and time again.

So, reading in "Mary Peters" was moved perhaps more than some others by Mary Ellen Chase's story of John Peters, who loved a dying elm so much that he moved it to another corner of his land . There were nine elms on the driveway, planted thirty-five years before, on the very day of John Peters' birth, as memorials to him. But one of them stood out of line as an unnecessary and unwanted fifth, where four ought to be, "obviously drying slowly from lack of room in which to grow." And for five years, because John loved natural beauty and liked to feel in partnership with other children of the earth, he dreamed of moving

Sermon Series Attract Crowds

Dr. Herbert L. Spencer 's Dr. J. A. Galbraith Is Continuing Series On "Sermon Of Mount" Gospel

> Four weeks ago Dr. J. A. Galbraith, pastor of the Epworth Methodist church began a series of sermons on the general subject of the life of Christ and the practical teaching of the sermon on the mount. These sermons have been preached and are continued at the 11 a. m. hour. The results have been increased > attendance and special interest in Bible reading. The plan has been to have the people read the scripture the week before that the pastor will use the following Sunday as the basis for the sermon. The sermon for this coming Sunday morning will be taken from the sermon on the mount as found in the sixth chapter of Matthew. The pastor also announces an important theme for this Sunday evening, namely, "Creed or Christ, A Revival or Continued Retreat—What Shall It Be?"
